

Susan J Falk

A lifelong artist and veteran teacher, Falk has been a pioneer in the Fraser Valley Arts community for decades. Her professional foray into the art world began in the film industry when Falk worked as a makeup artist. After cutting her teeth in the industry, Falk then served as the head of the program for twelve years at her alma mater, John Casablancas. After years of studying painting and eventually, selling her work, Falk transitioned into her career as a full-time painter and part-time instructor. She served on the board of directors for the Fort Gallery, for twelve years. Currently she serves on the Langley Centennial Museum Advisory Committee. Collaborating with poets and environmentalists, Falk was honoured with an Environmental Hero award from the Township of Langley. She was invited in 2015 to showcase her life size Bears and Salmon in a one woman show in Kyoto, Japan and to speak about environmental concerns. In 2020, Falk was an Artist in Residence at the Shadbolt Centre for the Arts.
